

Part 2. Additional Photographs

More photographs were available for use in this book than could conveniently be integrated with the text. The additional photographs are reproduced in this part. The photographs are arranged roughly in a sequence starting with Lars Larsson followed by each of the second generation families. There also are several photographs at the end in which none of the subjects are identified. It seems likely that some of these persons were members of the Larson family; the photographs are included with the hope that readers of this book may be able to make additional identifications.

Lars Larsson

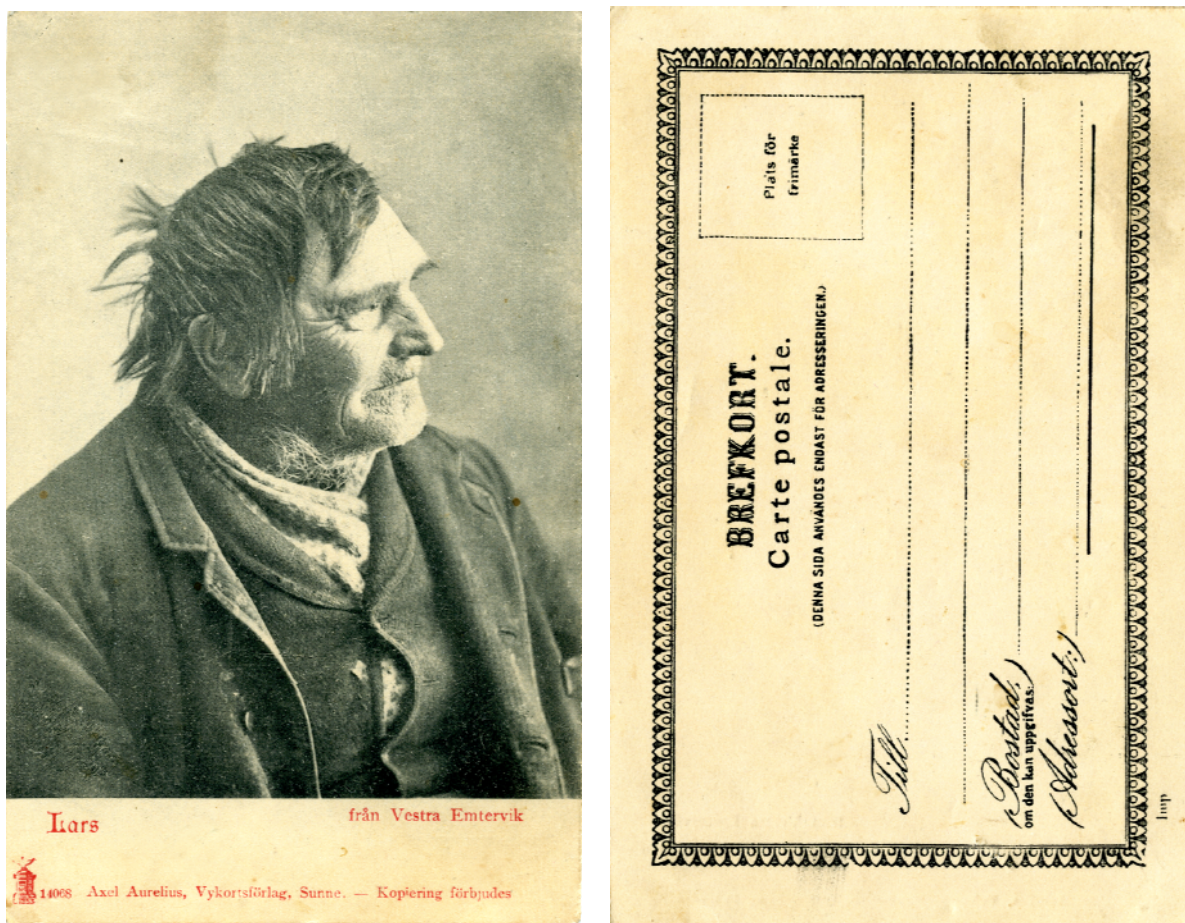

Figure 74. “Lars - från Vestra Emtervik” (Lars from West Emtervik). This photo postcard is among Emma Larson’s collection of portraits and snapshots. It seems unlikely that it is a photograph of her father, Lars Larsson, for several reasons. (1) Lars is recorded as having been born in Alster parish and having lived in Nedre Ullerud parish. Although Emtervik is nearby, it is a different parish. (2) The widespread use of photographs on postcards did not begin until almost 1900. Lars’ death in 1882 makes it unlikely that he would be pictured on such a card. Consequently, this photo should not be considered to be of Lars Larsson unless new evidence supporting this identification is found.
